What the Gospel is NOT

... consists of poetry and the literary structure of the book of Proverbs reveals several functions and messages. The first 12 chapters make clear the contrasts between the book of Proverbs and the book of Psalms. It is set before the poetical two-judge psalm, with the contrast of the way God judges us with the way we judge others. These two ways of living are represented in the eighth and ninth chapters of Proverbs. The eighth chapter is about Wisdom and her ways, while the ninth is about Human Wisdom as a metaphor for each one of us. Human Wisdom is ultimately the book of Proverbs, true things told in a parable of human wisdom by setting forth a portrait of human wisdom in all of her composite beauty (Proverbs 1:12).

The book of Proverbs displays several forms of wisdom written in ch. 1, as there are a number of longer poems that are similar in structure to some early Egyptian and Assyrian literary sources. Some recitation and more dramatic account however, is also present in the short poem of wisdom by the author. Another common form of wisdom in all cultures is giving a moral saying, which is frequent in Proverbs 1:1-22. These sayings are frequently given in a parable form, in which the second line makes a direct connection with the first line which is contained in the first 21 lines of Proverbs 1:10-12. There is also a third form in the numerical saying (6:8-19,
